About the Author

Alphonse Mucha was born in Ivančice, Moravia, in 1860. He studied art in Munich and Paris, and he quickly became one of the most popular artists of the Art Nouveau movement. Mucha's work was featured on posters, advertisements, postcards, and other decorative objects. He also designed several stained glass windows and murals.

Mucha's art was very popular in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, but it fell out of favor after World War I. In recent years, there has been a renewed interest in Mucha's work, and he is now considered one of the most important artists of the Art Nouveau movement.
