

From His Death to the Present Day: Exploring the Enduring Legacy of a Literary Giant

Six year old Geoffrey Simms is excited about the fact that he has worked hard to save a whole lot of money to buy his mother a very special birthday present. Then he finds out he still does not have enough money to get his mother the special present that he wanted to get her. This problem makes six year old Geoffrey very sad and depressed, until something wonderful and strange happens.

The very special thing that happens helps Geoffrey learn that when you care about someone, it is not the cost of the gift, or how fancy or glamorous the present looks that makes the gift special... but something far more important! Read and find out what Geoffrey Simms found out, and all other children need to know about what makes a gift, a "Magical Gift."
