Shelter: A Black Tale of Home in Baltimore is a groundbreaking work of art that transports readers to the heart of Baltimore's housing crisis. Through the eyes of a young woman named Aisha, we witness the devastating impact of systemic racism, poverty, and displacement on the city's Black community.

Aisha's story is a microcosm of the larger crisis facing Black people in Baltimore and across the country. She is a single mother struggling to make ends meet, and she has been evicted from her home multiple times. She has experienced firsthand the discrimination and violence that Black people face in their daily lives. But amidst the despair, Aisha finds hope in the resilience and spirit of her people.

Shelter is a powerful and unforgettable story that calls on us to confront the injustices that continue to plague our society. It is a story about the importance of home, the power of community, and the resilience of the human spirit.
