Alice was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia, in 1903. She began studying piano at the age of five, and by the time she was a teenager, she was giving concerts all over Europe. In 1933, the Nazis came to power in Germany, and Alice and her family were forced to flee their home. They eventually settled in London, where Alice continued to perform and teach piano.

In 1942, Alice and her husband were arrested and sent to the Theresienstadt concentration camp. Alice was forced to play the piano for the Nazi guards, and she witnessed firsthand the horrors of the Holocaust.

Despite the unimaginable suffering she endured, Alice never lost her love of music or her hope for a better future.

After the war, Alice returned to Prague and resumed her career as a pianist. She also began to speak out about her experiences in the Holocaust, and she became a powerful voice for peace and reconciliation.

In 2006, Alice published her memoir, The Life of Alice Herz Sommer. The book was an instant bestseller, and it has been translated into more than 20 languages.
